IMPACT ON WOMEN AND GIRLS

Yemeni civilians have been bearing the brunt of a conflict that led to the collapse of the economy and social services, and to the severe disruption of livelihoods in the three years since its escalation, making Yemen the largest humanitarian crisis in the world.

An estimated 22.2 million people – over three fourths of the population – are in need of some kind of assistance or protection, including 11.3 million who are in acute need – an increase of more than one million people since June 2017. Two in three people do not know where their next meal will come from.

The coping mechanisms of Yemenis are stretched to their limit. Women and children make up 76 percent of those displaced and are paying the heaviest price, as in most humanitarian crises.

There are an estimated three million women and girls of childbearing age who need support. Rising food shortages have left an estimated 1.1 million pregnant women malnourished, and threaten the lives of 75,000 women who are likely to develop complications during childbirth, including risks of stunted growth of their newborns.

In a country with one of the highest maternal mortality ratios in the Arab region, the lack of food, poor nutrition and the eroding healthcare, worsened by epidemics such as cholera and diphtheria, can mean an increase in premature or low-birth weight babies and severe postpartum bleeding.

As a result of the precarious security situation and the difficulty of access across the country, reproductive health personnel, commodities and services in health facilities have become much more scarce and difficult for women and girls to reach.

The escalation of the conflict and the ensuing humanitarian repercussions have further weakened the position of women and girls in Yemeni society, leading to a near erosion of their protection mechanisms and increasing their vulnerability to violence and abuse. An estimated three million women and girls are at risk of different forms of violence.

The deteriorating security situation along the western coast of the country, in particular Al Hudaydah Governorate has resulted in the displacement of nearly 50,000 households, with the lives of an estimated 250,000 at stake in the event of a military escalation or siege of the city. UNFPA estimates that the lives of 90,000 pregnant women inside Al Hudaydah would be at risk with nearly 14,000 women risking complications with immediate danger to their lives if urgent life-saving maternal care and medicines become inaccessible.

By the end of the year an additional 1 million people are projected to be displaced, with continued disruption to basic social services, requiring humanitarian partners to upscale their assistance and expand coverage.

Suad, 15 years old

"I am making a wedding dress for this doll, but I hope to never have to wear a wedding dress again.

"I was married when I was 14 years old to a man in his seventies. He has made my life a living hell. I have only one dream: to complete my education," tells Suad.

Amana, 25 years old

Amana's second child was born with severe disabilities and died immediately.

"I had only bread and water throughout my entire pregnancy. My husband had lost his job and we could only afford very little food to feed the family.

"I was malnourished and lacked vitamins and folic acid for a healthy pregnancy," says Amana. "Our living conditions are very difficult and it is only getting worse," she added.

Balqis, 35 years old, midwife

"Because of the conflict, I do not receive a salary anymore. I work mostly for free now or provide consultations over the phone."

I offer midwifery services at homes because I have no clinic and my house was damaged," said Balqis, a UNFPA-trained midwife.

2017 MAIN ACHIEVEMENTS

In response to the humanitarian crisis in Yemen, UNFPA has been striving to meet the urgent health needs of women and girls, with a focus on reproductive health, including life-saving services to pregnant women. UNFPA has also stepped up its protection and assistance services to women and girls who face different forms of violence. In cooperation with local authorities, non-governmental organizations and UN agencies across the country, UNFPA managed to provide more than 2.5 million people with reproductive health and protection services in 2017. UNFPA has therefore reached an additional of 1.5 million people than in 2016, as a result of increased donor funds, decentralization of UNFPA's response and increased presence in different provinces and districts.

2017 Overview of impact

- 140,277 people received reproductive health services
- 1,213,258 people benefited from family planning services
- 78,495 people reached through mobile clinics
- 130,000 people benefited from reproductive health kits at health centers
- 7,181 survivors of different forms of violence received services
- 72,846 benefited from dignity kits that included basic hygiene items
- 1,053,636 benefited from counselling

2017 Donor contributions

Donors whose contributions in 2016 were rolled over to 2017 include (in order of contributions): Netherlands, Saudi Arabia, United States of America, CERF, Country-based Pooled Funds and Japan

TRANSFORMING LIVES

Eshan, 18 years old

"I did not go to school, I was married a year ago and I am now expecting my first child. We do not have a gynecologist in our village. I would like to give birth in a hospital but even a check-up requires me to travel for over two hours to reach the nearest hospital.

I heard about this mobile health service from my neighbour. I come here regularly for check-ups and no longer don't have the fears about giving birth like I did before", says Ehsan, after receiving ante-natal care through a UNFPA operated mobile clinic in Al Hudaydah.

Ream, 15 years old

"I was 13 years old but I felt like I was a mother of five children. I was taking care of my five siblings. I tried to run away many times and commit suicide, but I was afraid to leave my siblings behind".

"I heard about this women's centre from a friend. They helped me pursue my education and find a job. I am looking after my siblings with that income, and my mum has finally come home. I hope my mother and father can be together again. There is nothing more precious than a stable home," says Ream.

Hana'a, 35 years old

Hana'a and her family lost their home because they could no longer afford it during the conflict. In much desperation she visited a UNFPA-supported women's centre.

She received psychological support and skills to start her own business. Soon Hana'a had a flourishing business making tattoo materials, set up with cash assistance from UNFPA. She has even employed other women to support her. With this income she has also managed to rent a house for her family.

2018 STRATEGIC PRIORITIES FOR UNFPA

2. Strengthening mechanisms to prevent and respond to different forms of violence, including the engagement of men and boys as agents of change;

3. Specifically address the reproductive health and protection needs that result from the most recent escalations, including famine and emerging health epidemics.

GEOGRAPHICAL COVERAGE

UNFPA's interventions cover 21 of the 22 governorates in Yemen, with a team of 41 staff members (six international and 35 national). The overall coordination happens at UNFPA's office in Sana'a, and in other provinces through joint UN humanitarian hubs. UNFPA is currently present in all five operational UN humanitarian hubs (Aden, Al Hudaydah, Ibb, Sa'ada and Sana'a), where close monitoring of the evolving needs lead to the regular adapting of the humanitarian response.

WHAT IF... WE FAIL TO RESPOND...

- At least 1,000 maternal deaths among an estimated 75,000 women at risk of developing complications during childbirth;
- Total collapse in reproductive health facilities, with only one third of all reproductive health facilities currently functioning in the country;
- Lives of an estimated 60,000 women and girls at risk from different forms of violence;
- Grave threats to the basic rights for millions of Yemenis with no support or access to food, water, health services, medication and protection.

UNFPA is grateful for the valued support of the following donors for our response to the crisis in Yemen (in alphabetical order): Canada, Friends of UNFPA, Italy, Japan, Kuwait, Netherlands, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, United Arab Emirates, Yemen Humanitarian Pooled Fund
